

SUBMISSION FORM

South Australian Heritage Council

Submission on whether the entry of Shed 26, Semaphore Road, New Port should be confirmed in the South Australian Heritage Register

The South Australian Heritage Council can only take into account heritage significance of a place as defined by the Heritage Places Act 1993 (Act) when considering places for entry on the South Australian Heritage Register. Using the table below, please provide evidence or information to explain why you believe the place does or does not meet the criteria under the Act.

Criteria

Criteria under the Heritage Places Act 1993 , section 16(1)	Provide evidence or other information why you believe criteria applies or does not apply to this place
(a) it demonstrates important aspects of the evolution or pattern of the State's history	Partly because of its characteristic shape and height as well as the fact that so much else has been demolished Shed 26 has become an important symbol of the Glanville Dockyards and the S A Harbors Board's key role in the development of industry in the post WW2 era. This building now represents an important part of South Australian and Port Adelaide history representing the time when the Port of Adelaide was a major driver in the development of the state physically, commercially and culturally. It was a key part of an era when the state government drove the development of industry across the state with this building playing a key role in fabrication, maintenance and development of S A's strategic maritime facilities.

SUBMISSION FORM

(b) it has rare, uncommon or endangered qualities that are of cultural significance	With much of the historical industrial buildings having been demolished Shed 26 is the only industrial building of that era left dockside within the Port of Adelaide. Its form and scale enable it to stand out and make a heritage statement. This is no doubt the reason that it has been used within publicity material and promotion by the current developer and Renewal SA. It offers interesting character depicting history and culture amongst the contemporary buildings especially when viewed from Glanville.
(c) it may yield information that will contribute to an understanding of the State's history, including its natural history	This building depicts an era when governments took initiatives to develop infrastructure across the state as the basis of economic and social development. High quality standards were fundamental to the workmanship which was undertaken by government workers who were committed to enhancing the development and well-being of their fellow South Australians. This represents a completely different culture and current governmental role of depending on private enterprise and subcontracting of work.

(d) it is an outstanding representative of a particular class of places of cultural significance
(e) it demonstrates a high degree of creative, aesthetic or technical accomplishment or is an outstanding representative of particular construction techniques or design characteristics
(f) it has strong cultural or spiritual associations for the community or a group within it	██████████ the Premier's Port Renewal Steering Committee which conducted extensive consultation with the local community during which the value of heritage as being fundamental to the Port's Renewal was strongly affirmed. In particular, Shed 26 was frequently identified as being a characteristic part of The Port's heritage and often identified as the type of facility which has been demolished over time but should now be preserved. In recent times I have noticed some community debate via Facebook including some detractors from the importance of maintaining the building. I am surprised that this attitude is so contradictory to the strong feelings via the extensive and formally conducted processes from our committee but do observe that some of those detractors appeared to be very new to the area (or possibly not residents).
(g) it has a special association with the life or work of a person or organisation or an event of historical importance	As mentioned above, this building, within this distinctive maritime precinct, is important culturally to many people, particularly men, who trained and worked within this and similar buildings now demolished. Many such men are still resident in nearby suburbs and are very proud of the contribution that they made to the development of South Australia and believe that, through preservation of this characteristic building their contribution can be recognised and passed on to their grandchildren and future generations.
